Reldni Inc. Anthology

Reldni Inc. has been toying with the idea of creating a cassette tape that will include some of the best material in the Reldni Inc. archives. Such a collection may include the song "Acid Trip Blues", the Nutso and Norgello story "The House Sits Still" and other Reldni Inc. favourites.

The main concern is that a good deal of material is not (and never really was) in great condition. Some great moments may not be included on such a collection, because of poor sound quality. However various recording techniques are being examined to see if some of the poor sounding items can be upgraded.

There are currently three or four possible titles for the finished product (that is if there ever is a finished product). The titles include "The Best of Reldni Inc.", "The Reldni Inc. Collection" and "The Reldni Inc. Anthology."

Archive Material Debate

A decision may soon be reached on whether all recorded material should be archived. Previously, most out-takes and recordings not used on Reldni Inc. cassette projects have been recorded over.

Entire projects, that were deemed unacceptable such as "All In A Day's Work" and "The Reldni Inc. Channel" were erased, before any copies were distributed or sold.

The concern is that it would cost quite a bit more, if cassettes with unwanted recordings are not reused. However saving all recordings is a great way of ensuring that there are no regrettable erasings. A meeting to discuss this topic will soon be held.
